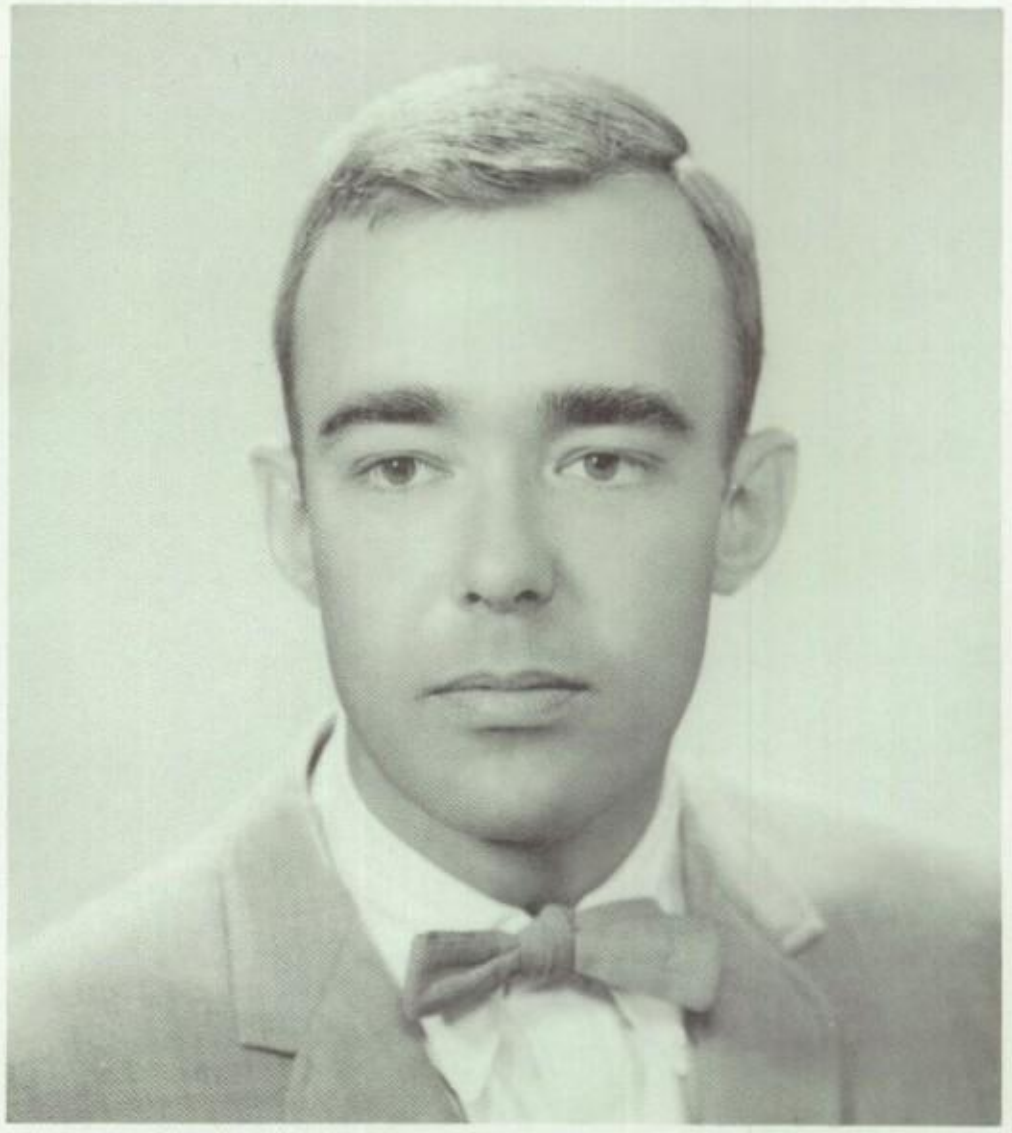
DEDICATION

The Class of 1984 would like to thank someone who epitomizes the pulse of our community. We dedicate this yearbook to Grim in honor of his 20 years of service as yearbook adviser. His untiring commitment, boundless energy, good humor, commanding spirit, and yearning for challenge have been and continue to be inspirational to us all.



Grim has just completed his 25th year as a member of the Loomis Chaffee faculty having begun his tenure as a Yale graduate in the fall of 1959. Teacher of history, economics, educational philosophy and psychology, coach of hockey and lacrosse, dormhead of Flagg, creator of the "Wilderness Experience", mountain climber extraordinaire, Grim has been role model and friend in so many meaningful ways.

Mr. James H. "Grim" Wilson

"The essence of coaching/teaching is to be able to recognize a weak performance, diagnose the difficulty, and suggest a better way."

"For me, climbing a big mountain with others on whom I will depend is a total experience. It's what life is all about in a sense: preparing oneself, in every way, working with others, coping with stress, meeting challenges and ultimately being in control of one's life. . . . (about his 18 days on Mt. McKinley): My body, my judgment, my will were all stretched 'beyond the demands of normal living.' It was not just the intellectual me or the physical me that was involved; it was a total me functioning in response to a challenge; and it brought out in all of us the essence of self-reliance, resourcefulness, and cooperation."

FALL

Beginning Again

Each school year brings new responsibilities for every member of the Loomis Chaffee community. From the freshmen at the bottom of the pile up to the seniors at the top, changes occur on all levels: academic, social, athletic, and just day-to-day. Courses, those expected and those coming as surprises, require renewed vigor and greater effort than ever before. The adjustments of the workload for newcomers are as difficult as the increasingly strenuous regimes for the veterans. The fall is a particularly hard time: for the day students — getting along with people in the carpool, for the boarders — becoming accustomed to living away from home either for the first time or once again, and for everyone — making new friends, acquiring school spirit, and learning to get around the rules in the handbook.

Something important besides responsibility is learned by each group at the school during this term. Freshmen quickly discover that seniors rule the path and violators will be prosecuted. Sophomores find out that Human Sexuality Seminars, Library Skills, and Computer do not mix. Juniors finally fit into their roles in Loomis Chaffee's and United States' History; and although college applications loom ominously in every corner, seniors at last enjoy themselves knowing that each day is one yet closer to that sacred June commencement.

Despite the other changes occuring, some aspects of the school always remain the same: Matt Siegel is still "touchable" as he was in the past, our teams continue to work industriously to support the Island's reputation, and, of course, grades are present in all of the students' minds. Fluctuations, however, occur in the routines of this life as they do in the weather; and before anyone realizes it, time has passed and winter has invaded our sheltered community.

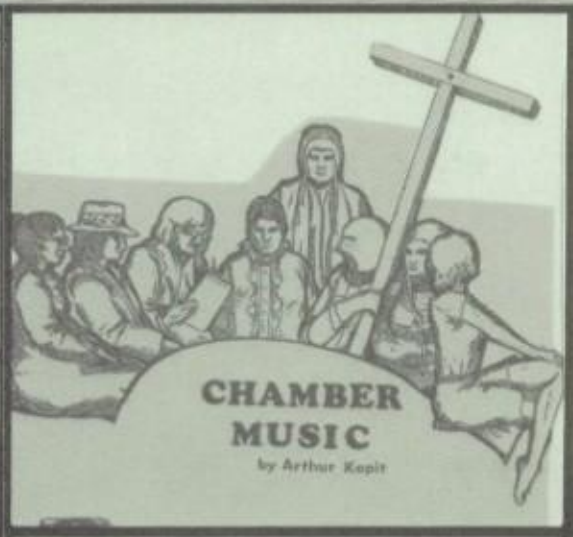
FALL PLAYS AT THE NEO



In the fall of 1921, the Kent football team defeated the Ivanhoe team, Loomis 13-7. Following the game, a tea at Headmaster Beechtree's house provided the impetus that made the game an enduring legend. A spoon from Mrs. B's silver service was missing and Mr. B accused the Kent players of taking it. This accusation initiated Father Silk, then Headmaster of Kent who subsequently discovered a Kent player had taken the spoon. The spoon was not returned until 1947 at a celebration of Mr. B's 30th year at Loomis. Mrs. B graciously declined it, whereupon Father Chadmore, the Headmaster at Kent, offered a larger replica of the spoon as a football trophy which would have the scores of Loomis-Kent football games engraved on it. Since 1947, the Spoon Game has been a treasured tradition at each School.

WINTER
As Cold Sets In

Subzero temperatures and record snowfalls helped distinguish this Winter Term from those past; however, "that's not all folks!" For activities abounded throughout the term and kept everyone busy (sometimes too busy).

With holiday concerts, Achievement Tests, college applications, and athletic team practices, everyone worked towards a well-deserved winter vacation. Island members mourned the death of Steve Bader, Class of 1983, and learned about the value of life. The issue of athletic exemption for performing artists began to spring up, and Dr. Ratte portrayed 'Scrooge' once again. (This time on the front page of a local paper!)

A sense of community marked the new year, 1984, about which George Orwell prophesied. When money was stolen from the Afro American Society, school clubs responded generously and made possible a charitable gift on Martin Luther King Day. Enthusiasm and concern characterized a Town Meeting that focused on Safe Rides, seminars, workload, the guest list party rule, and respect for one's peers. Peer Supporters learned about listening on a retreat at The American School for the Deaf, and the first exchange between LC and Windsor High students gave satisfaction to all participants. Juniors began the journey towards college with their first attempt at SAT'S, but found relief (along with the rest of the Island) in the form of two blessed snow days.

With only February left, vacation and spring still seemed far, far away. The month began with Reverend William Coffin asking us three questions and ended with our teachers asking us two hours worth of questions. Relaxing on Headmaster's, sailing away on the "Island Queen" at the Junior Informal, and being hypnotized by "Mr. Fingers", all helped to pass the time. The highlight, however, was a vision of warmth in the form of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream". It was a fantastic sellout success, lifting spirits high in expectation of a fun-filled spring.

A Mid-Summer Night's Dream

A Midsummer Night's Dream Becomes A Reality

This year's theatrical extravaganza fell in the winter term when the brave and ambitious Dean Adams dug deep into the reserves of Loomis Chaffee enthusiasm to pull off a successful Shakespeare . . . and so we converted the masses so much that we played to 3½ full houses. (Pity on the missing half.)

What we intend to reveal to you in this article is what WE saw and you did not . . . the backstage melodrama, the thrills and spills, and bitching and itching. The questions you are all dying to ask — Is Jon really an ass? — Is Cathy really as ugly as a bear? — Is it true that Suzie had regular electrocution before performances?

A tad of the credit for the play's stunning visual effect must be given to our director Dean Adams. The lazy swine didn't do much except perhaps neglect sleep, food, and play for a whole term while living in his beloved theatre. The simple effect of an elaborate tree, a raised platform, a fairy bower, a pond with real genuine H^2O, fog, flame and others were nothing for a man of his talents. Dean even broke his arm to show his dedication.

Brake his arm? We hear you cry. Allow us to elaborate. Desperate to escape the clutches of groping cast members, eagerly whining for praise, admiration, and the old theatre associate points, Dean leapt into a triple toe loop (choreographed by his wife Kristin), Mr. Gottschalk struck up "Ye Spotted Snakes" and disaster hit upon us. Misjudging his landing, our director had caught his warm awkwardly . . . and by the way, it was broken. Bloodcurdling screams, gasps of sickened horror rang out as the implications of this little tragedy reached home. Luckily, the break healed in two weeks, but now with our sympathy aroused, the cast united under their leader and marched onward to victory.

Not to be outdone, the crucial role of Moonshine (the guy with the dog urinating on his leg) was jeopardized when Michael threw himself off a ladder from 15 feet up. One broken foot later, only nine days before opening night, the costume designer was set to work on covering up the cast. In true heroic fashion, for heroism and nothing less was expected from this play, Michael walked without crutches during performances.

In a play so heavily dependent on detail, every character was of vital importance so here is a brief run through of our Thesbians' notable traits:

Chad as Theseus, the perfect aristocrat as was his overbearing wife, Hillary; the two were never the same after a prolonged outburst of hysterical giggling Monday night. Ted Mattis, the old man of the group who annoyed us all by stealing the two biggest laughs with the two cheapest bits in the whole show. Credit to Dean, the king of cheap tricks, and to Ted for keeping a straight face. Philostrate, by no means the world's greatest magician as Shakespeare intended . . . his juggling proved one of the high points of this wonderful farce. The photograph shows Ellen Waggett, a stage manager, politely explaining the need to incorporate a third ball into the juggling act . . . Demetrius and Lysander were solid, reliable lovers. Pity that even the combined intellects of Kirk and Saul could not always keep up with the change of lovers. Lines such as "God speed He! . . . Her . . . He! . . . Hermia" were memorably altered. Liz Colker and Cathy Bortz contrasted quite well . . . the one at heart a bitch . . . the other a plain, lusty maiden grabbing men's ankles, both greatly played to perfection. Saul's ear is permanently misshaped and Liz, no longer the same after constant cries of "Breasts out" forcing her to straighten her back. The lovers were a strong element behind the play's success. And so on to the mechanicals: Bottom's obsessive nosepicking and scratching struck a suitably gross tone for a gross actor. Quince, the leader of the group, echoed authority. The nervous Soprano, Gunnar O'Neill, (Eat your heart out Michael Jackson), as the reluctant Thisbe, joined forces with Jon in the most touching of stage kisses. Complaints were regularly registered as to the cleanliness of Dee's ears. She of course was perfect as the wall and indeed could have been said to have stolen the show with her marvelous facial expressions. And all we have to say is Michael's dog . . . his dog. Then came Cedric, a surprise to all in his brilliant interpretation of the Lion. His aggressive roaring and loveable stupidity won over the audience from the start. Joe Michaels proved a tower of strength (all of four feet); however, his decision on Thursday night to keep us all waiting in mid-performance for a somewhat belated entrance turned us all into nervous wrecks. Sandra had a wonderful time. After all, who wouldn't, falling in love with an ass. As for the fairies, their energy was vital in attracting the audiences' attention and in capturing the spirit world. Makeup and costume were of prime concern to the play's unique visual effects, especially for the spirits. Many thanks here go to Sue Young, our outside costume designer and her array of makeup and costume girls. Such was her professionalism that Jon, Gunnar, and Anthony were forced to smuggle (on penalty of death) McDonald's into the bathroom. Starvation had to be avoided. Puck, although slow to start, improved with every choreographed move. (Well done Kristin Adams!) His vitality and physical efforts for one so small held the play together. Mark Gottschalk (for one less small) provided a musical backing ideal to the play.

Finally . . . DEAN!!!, Superbly supported by the stage managers, Kirsten and Ellen, and the vocal coaching of Martha Hess, his Dream became a reality.

At the end it was a shame to see it all finished . . . the scattered flowers, the stale makeup and the sore throats. It was however a GREAT experience for ALL.

Highlights for Victorious Pucksters in Europe

After a year of fund-raising (painting houses, selling food, tag sales, raffles etc.) the Boys' Varsity Hockey Team spent 12 days in West Germany and Austria during spring vacation. The team won five out of six games, the real highlight being the game played in the Olympic Stadium in Innsbruck/won by the Pelicans, 8-1. The players, accompanied by ten parents and coach Jim Wilson, particularly enjoyed Munich, where they met up with the Chamber Singers, Innsbruck (where many spent a day skiing), and Sonthofen, a village in the Bavarian Alps.

SPRING
The Last Leg

"The end is near", "Only one more term". Comments like these sustained most of us throughout the spring — so did sunbathing in the quad, final ceremonies, and No Exams!! Yes, the floods did come and come and come . . . But earlier, we had the resurrection of Seminar Days. It was cold, but Simon Says, fondue-making, massaging, and more, kept us quite preoccupied. Energy levels remained above normal especially during a thirty minute overtime Town Meeting (which made some people angry!). We heard stories about Chamber Singers in Europe, hockey players in Austria, and college-bound (???) seniors in depression and/or ectasy.

In May began the transfer of leadership — elections for Student Council (congrats Carolyn Volpe!) and Class Officers coming first. There were SAT'S again, Alumni Weekend, dances, recitals, and concerts. A succesion of special events treated seniors with style: The Prom, Senior-Faculty dinner, Skip Day (Sorry Mr. Hess, Senior Day) which was rained on, and a hot and humid graduation.

Then it was over and everyone moved up a step. Freshmen no longer must suffer for being at the bottom of the ladder, sophomores sustain themselves with one word — upperclassman, and juniors move on to the fun yet difficult, discouraging, yet rewarding, but all around GREAT senior year.

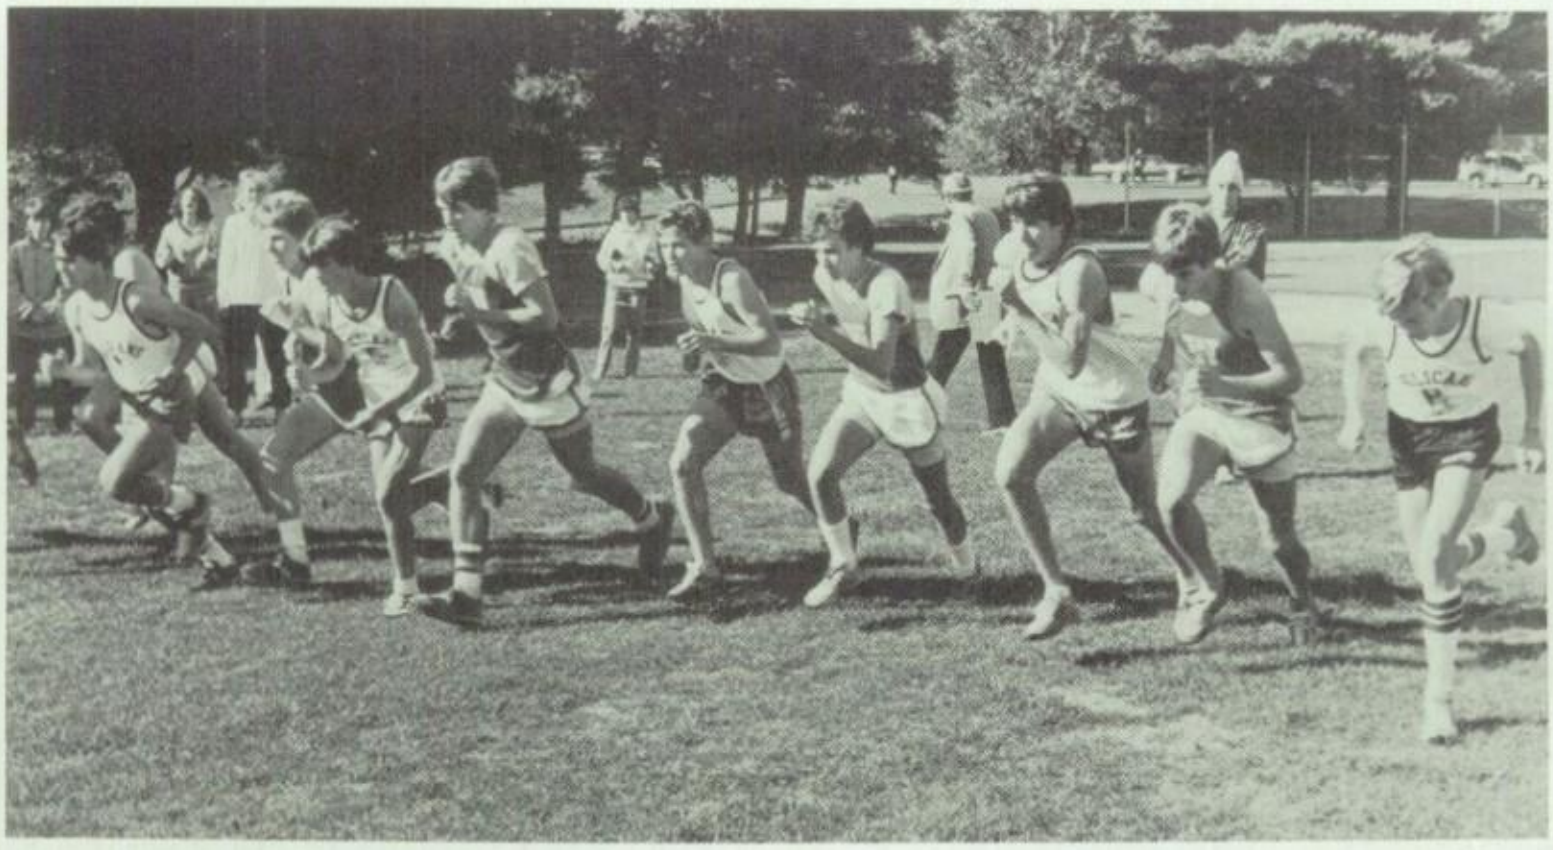
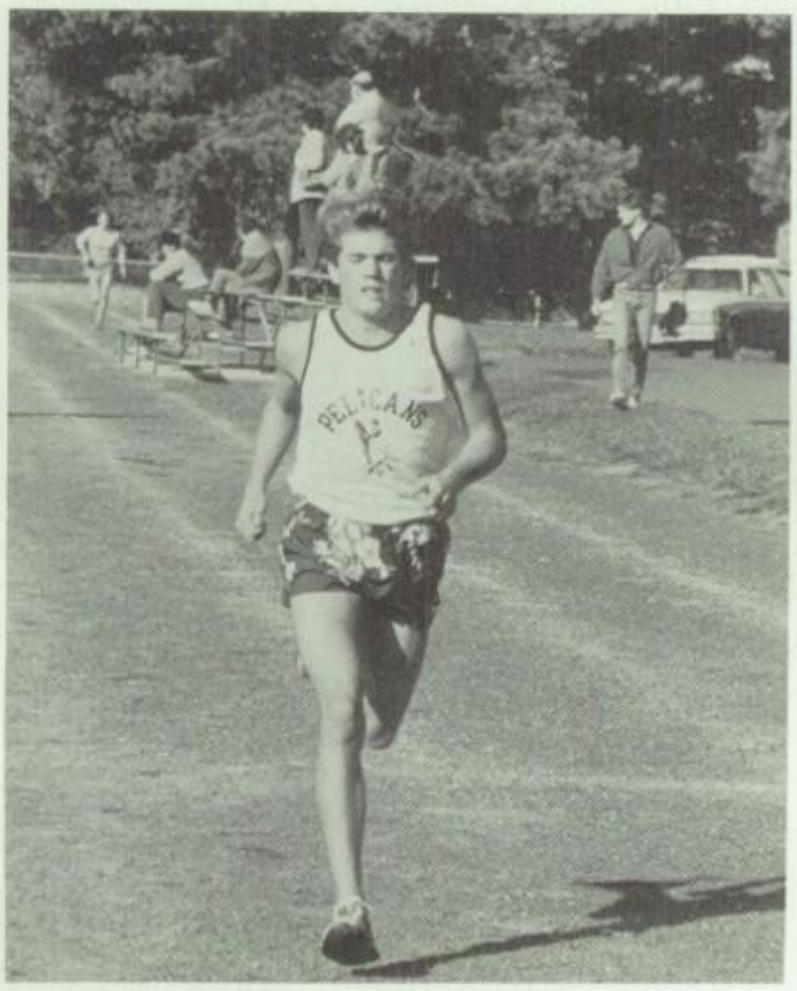
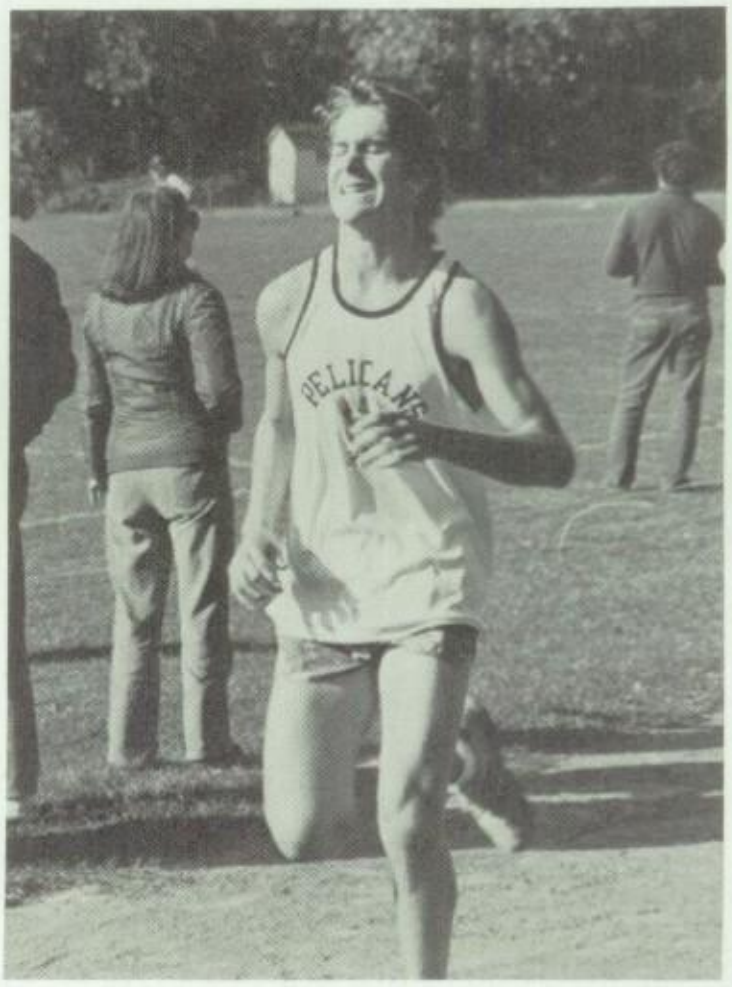
"Real Men" Wear Flowered Shorts







Team spirit and strength based in returning seniors John Eustis, Matt Siegel, Neil Isenberg, and John Houghton were complemented by the remarkable improvements made over the summer by Kermit Adams '85, Peter Knight '85, and John Perkins '84, and by the addition of novice but talented runner Geoff Perkins '84. There were 22 total members of the combined varsity and junior varsity squads, 12 of whom were seniors. Positions on the varsity team, especially numbers 5-7, were constantly being competed for. Patrick Hayden and Phil Sanderson, both '86, rose from the ranks of JV for one varsity race each.

Workout distances increased, individuals' times improved, and races were won until mid-season when injuries and illnesses began to plague key runners. Swimming, Jane Fonda workouts, sprint technique drills, and our bright and wildly flowered shorts added variety and distinction to the season; however, it was the perseverence and good spirits of the individual runners which made the season successful and special.

When coaching a team, there are many qualities you try to develop in the athletes, such as commitment to the team, individual responsibility to perform, competitiveness and the desire to win. The 1983 Girls' Cross Country Team had all these qualities. Just as importantly though, was the spirit that this team demonstrated time and again.

Highlights of the season include a repeat second place finish at the Canterbury Invitational with a 7th place individual finish by Dawn Farmer, and first place honors at the Williston Invitational with five individuals placing in the top 10. In dual meet competition the girls defeated Choate Rosemary Hall for the first time since 1979. The girls finished the season with a 5th place finish at the New England Championships, individual honors going to Fiona Micheli who finished 8th and Kathy Wilson who finished 12th overall.

Quite Simply, A Sensational Season!

Quite simple, the 1983 field hockey season was sensational! The key to the team's success was it's excellent attitude towards practices, competition and team unity. These athletes recognized, even before the season began, the total commitment involved when striving for excellence.

One of the most exciting characteristics of this team was their love for competition. The challenge of an undefeated team, or the situation of being down by a goal with only a few minutes remaining in the game always yielded outstanding play and almost always captured a victory. Highlights of the season had to be the Berkshire game and the last ten minutes of the Kent game! During both of these games, the team demonstrated a desire and effort characteristic of only true champion teams.

The seniors, Robin, Tracy, Nikki, Darcy, Kelli, Heather, Emily, Christi, Kim, Kris, and Megan; yes, there are eleven, will most definitely be missed next year. We wish you the best and commend you for the excellent example you've set for the underclassmen. Get psyched for an alumni game!!

Winning is not everything . . .

To say the least, this year's football team suffered a most disappointing season. The gridders could not put points on the scoreboard when they needed to. However, the players never gave up; they went into every game psyched and hungry.

This year's football team was plagued by injuries. Not only was this hard on the individuals who experienced them, they effected every member of the squad. There was no time to refine a specific position because the players constantly had to fill in at new positions. It is hard enough to learn one position during a season, but to learn a new one every game is nearly impossible.

The highlight of the year was the Trinity-Pawling game. The offense was awesome. Senior quarterback and tri-captain Mark Galley led the attack by passing for over 230 yards. His main targets were John Kelly, Lawrence Davis, Mike Santini, and Kevin Lynch. The running game, led by John Kelly, Mark Galley, Joe DeFranco, and tri-captain Ricardo Degwitz, was equally impressive; it gained over 260 yards. At the final whistle the score was 22-0, in favor of LC, and it easily could have been much higher because five LC touchdowns were called back.

The defensive unit had a slow start this year, but, despite the injuries, it managed to gain respectability. The outstanding players in this unit were tri-captain Taylor Henderson at the end, Joe DeFranco at line backer, Lawrence Davis at defensive back, Mark Galley at strong safety, Mitchell Garcia at end and Ricardo Degwitz at nose tackle.

Football requires hard work; playing the game is sometimes painful. Losing in football can be very painful. The players on this year's team endured the pain . . . and grew with each setback and with each challenge.

SOCCER . . .

An Unpredictable Sport

Soccer can be such a strange sport because the more talented team is never assured of victory. The high quality of play in the Western New England Prep School Soccer Association certainly added to the game's unpredictability this season. It would be unreasonable to say that this year's team had not hoped to do better than its 8-7-2 record and more importantly, well enough to make the post-season playoffs. That the team did not satisfy these goals represents a source of frustration for all concerned.

However, it would be unwise and unfair to the players to suggest that all of their efforts went for naught. On the contrary, this year's team, captained by three-year lettermen Craig Russman and Kristian Strom was, indeed, a very fine team, capable of playing the game the way it is meant to be played. Berkshire . . . Mt. Herman . . . Williston . . . Deerfield . . . Suffield (2nd half) . . . Hotchkiss . . . Kent . . . There are too many fond memories of outstanding play — inspirations not soon to be forgotten. No fewer than five seniors on this team can hope to compete seriously at college level soccer. Russman and Strom, Johan Stubner, Geoff Keith and Miles Williams represent a talented lot, ably complemented by their peers, Mike Giorgio, Jamie Everitt, Glenn Decker, Rob Moskowitz, and Seth Duchesneau.

Bronchitis, appendicitis, mononucleosis . . . sprains, strains, and even concussions. Never has the girls' soccer team experienced so many personal difficulties. Yet, despite this bad luck, the players on the team — many of whom were seniors — never stopped working and never lost faith in their ability to win. The objective became to play their best amidst continually changing personnel; rarely did the same players start in any two consecutive games, let alone attend consecutive practices. Co-captains Jen Giron and Sarah Quinn provided incredible leadership and inspiration for this group of experienced players who had anticipated a winning season. Tess Jackson, Terry Jacobs, Pam Vander Veer, Kim Vander Putten, and Charlaina Wilson also provided the kind of steady play and enthusiastic leadership that made what could have been a real disappointment into a successful season. Particularly in the last three or four games, against the strongest teams in the league, the team rose to the challenges and played excellent soccer. Although the final record was not what the players and coaches had anticipated, the members of this team played some really fine soccer and continued to raise the quality of play both at Loomis Chaffee and among the league of Western New England Schools. The tradition of high quality soccer and intense competition was strengthened by the play of this year's team.

The players back for early practice were greeted with an empty pool, but they made do. The team traveled to Suffield Academy twice a day and did a pre-breakfast swim workout outdoors. No one had to be told to stay in the water once the early morning practice began.

Highlights of the season include a weekend trip to Lawrenceville where we played well, losing to Lawrenceville and winning two close ones, 15-14 over Reading High from Pennsylvania, and 19-16 over Monmouth College.

Some additional highlights include our best season ever (14-7) against our strongest competition ever, a 4-2 recored against college teams, a third place seeding in the New England Interscholastic Tournament (our highest ever), and a third place finish in the tournament.

Three relatively easy victories early in the season made the team a little overconfident at the Hill Invitational Tournament in December. Although the experience at this tournament proved worth while in the long run, the last place finish was a bitter pill. The team began the new year with more realistic aspirations and a realization of the importance of hard work. As the season progressed the players improved on their weaknesses and learned to understand and capitalize on their strengths. The hard work paid off as the team finished the season with a six-game winning streak and an invitation to the New England Tournament.

The highlights of the season included the final six-game streak, the 30-point victory over NMH, the big win over Tilton in the quarter final round of the tournament, and Matt Whitehead cracking the 1000 point barrier.

The Lady Pelicaro struggled through a 5-8 season. Led by seniors, Kim Frost, Susan King and junior Carolyn Volpe, the team was anchored by seven new members (4 sophomores) and two other returning lettermen. Despite the team's youth and inexperience, the team recorded wins over rivals Kingswood and Hotchkiss as well as a very close overtime loss to defending New England Champion Hopkins. A sad farewell to Kim and Susan, for without their leadership, the team would have had great trouble maintaining their pride and integrity.

Riddled with injuries, including separated shoulders and torn knee ligaments, and hounded by the flu, the team lost five of its first six games in December, each by one goal, two in overtime. Perhaps symbolically, this same team, in virtually perfect health, won five out of six games in its twelve-day trip to West Germany and Austria during the spring vacation. One highlight of the European trip was to play the Innsbruck Hockey Club in the Olympic Ice Stadium in Innsbruck. Inspired by the setting, Loomis Chaffee won, 8-1. During January, the team defeated Hotchkiss, Taft, Hill, Lawrenceville, and in one of the best games of the season, knocked off the local rival, Westminster, 4-1. Other important victories during the season included convincing victories over such local "powerhouses" as Enfield High School, 7-2, East Catholic, 10-5, and Springfield Cathedral, 10-1, a team that had beaten Loomis Chaffee in a December scrimmage.

The team finished in fourth place in the newly established Erickson League, behind Avon, Kent, and Choate. Including exhibition games and the six games played in Europe, the team's final record was 21-12. Much of the team's success came from the steadily improving team defense. Rob Inman and Taylor Henderson shared the goaltending responsibilities. Two pairs of defensemen were remarkably durable and made incredible progress during the season; Craig Russman, a three year varsity player, and Kevin Gardner, who had the team's best rating, skated together, while John Thompson and Matt Cleary worked as a pair on defense. Gordon Lank was the team's high scorer with 52 goals and 26 assists in 25 games. Gordon, along with Craig Russman, had the highest plus-minus rating for the season (+52). Mike McCaffrey was the team's top assist man with 43, and Dean Charpentier had 41.

10-4-0 is a solid record for any team. Loomis Chaffee Girls' Hockey beat six teams and lost to just two in compiling that record. What stood out about the 1983-84 team? Certainly co-captain Maria Dennis excelled. She was the team's high scorer and the most prolific goal-scorer in Western New England, possibly in all of New England. She also lead the team in assists and was such a constant threat that each opponent had to gear their play to slow her down. As others on the team improved, they gave Maria more and more support and made it increasingly difficult for opponents to defend against the Pelicans. Co-captain Sara Quinn; three-year juniors Debbie Manning and Sue Horn; Nina Pratt, Marla Henken, Ann Ulrich; and three-year seniors Jo Buckholz and Kirsten Chapman all came on to make the team a well-balanced operation. And freshman Judy Parish gave notice that she is going to have an enormous impact on the program for the next three years.

The highlight games were the 2-1 loss to Taft and the second game against Hotchkiss, won by Loomis Chaffee, 7-3. Choate-Rosemary, Pomfret, Stuart, NMH, Williston-Northampton all fell before this fine-skating team.

This year's men's swim team was prepared for a season of mediocrity after graduating two All-Americans in 1983. Moreover, several swimmers left the team during the season for various reasons, including injuries. Due to inspired motivation by the team members and innovative coaching, the team surpassed all expectations. One highlight of the season was coming from behind against powerhouse Fairfield Prep to lose by a narrow margin of ten points in the last relay. Also important was the thrashing of arch-rival Suffield Academy in a meet which culminated a mid-season taper and included a 1-2-3 sweep in the 100 freestyle. Led by Coach "Bio" Bob Hartman and co-captains Jon Ritter and Pat Kelleher, the team which included seniors Dan "Foto" Aronson, John "Fishhead" Gassner, Coleman Ross, Wayne (r) Hosking, Doug "Blob" Wright, Peter Mendlinger, J.J. Baker, Bob Cowan, and underclassmen Mike Castlemen, Dave "Ding-Dong" Bell, Steve "Mugs" Mugsford, Jim "Cromboner" Crombie, Harry "Harv" Bimi, Doug Hano, Tim Maricle, Eddy "Isaac" Sharkansky, Jonathan Ross, Forest "Woods" Wallace, and Scott "Stud" Jackson ended the season placing first in the state championships at Choate and fifth at New England Championships at N.M.H.

Loomis Chaffee Women's Swim Team Leaves

With lots of strength returning and a very strong group of freshmen added to the squad, the women's swim team looked very good this year. The season went even better than expected in every way, and a credit for this must be given to the seniors.

Heather Campbell, Francie Mantak, and Monica Stevenson were outstanding captains in both practice and performance. There isn't a swimmer or diver in the league who didn't recognize their dominance of their events for the last four years. Cindy and Jen added strength to that leadership through their abilities and attitudes. The seniors set the tone for a happy, competitive, no-nonsense year of practices. Combine that with the talent and enthusiasm they had and this team couldn't go wrong.

The season began by winning seven of nine relays at the Williston Invitational Relays in December. The team continued with good hard meets with Andover, Peddie, and Exeter in which many school records were broken. The taper worked well and L.C. went on to win the Bud Erich Invitational and the New England Championships.

The dual meets and the championship meets were team efforts. Every single member of the team can be singled out for a moment when her performance in a specific instance made a big difference in the outcome of a meet. Versitility and depth in every event, combined with all that training and team pride, made L.C. the number one prep school swim team in New England. It was a season to be proud of with memories that will last a long time.

Ski Team Jumps to Division 1

The first race of the season was not held, ironically, because a snow storm had cancelled school around the state and flooded the ski area with recreational skiers. The team approached the debut race with some apprehension, since the competitors were Berkshire, Salisbury, and Avon, teams which would finish the season in that order. Nonetheless, the team was able to aquit themselves with sufficient aplomb to defeat Avon. Not so in the next outing, where it lost to Salisbury, Avon and Williston in an icy contest at Butternut. The squad overtook Kingswood at Southington in the next race, and Choate in the following week. In the final contest at Sundown, however, the temperature was warm, and the deep snow had generated bobsled style ruts which bucked off the competion to result in the team's only sweeping victory, this time over Salisbury, Suffield and Kingswood. In the Division 1 Championships, LC placed sixth, ahead of Choate, Williston, and the Division II All-stars.

Riflery Perfect Again: Two Women Join Squad

Varsity riflery once again managed to clinch the league title and to remain undefeated for 4½ years straight. Though the team had four members who were shooting in the varsity for the first time, the team managed to beat even its most formidable rival, Choate Rosemary Hall, by a 52 point spread. The team owes much to its captains, Steve Mathessen, and its senior members: Sarah Carey (Loomis Chaffee's first woman shooter on the varsity squad), Sean Lyons, Kumar Ramanan and Nick Whitelaw. Coach McCarthy praised the team for its talent, will to learn, and dedication.

Young Volleyball Team Gains Experience

With only one returning player and three team members who never played competitive volleyball before, the varsity volleyball team started the season as a young, inexperienced group. But the players were found to be quick learners and determined athletes who achieved an impressive competitive level of play throughout the season. The final record does not really reflect the skill level this team reached; several matches, such as those against Taft and Porter's were extremely close, and referees commented several times on the impressive level of play by the team. One of the captains, Phyllis Porter, was awarded a scholarship to play for Syracuse, a Division I school. The team also achieved a well-rounded excellence, for the offense and defense were equally strong, and the players worked as a unit throughout each match.

Loomis Chaffee wrestling is on the upswing from a down year last season. This solid and competitive team finished 6-6 for the season. Notable were the performances of captains Ben Malcom and Eric Mendelsohn. Ben won his second consecutive state championship at 114 lbs. and took a third place in the New England Tournament. Eric finished fourth in the New England Tournament. Also to be noted were strong performances by Peter Buchman, who finished third in the state tournament at 102 lbs., and fourth in the New England's, and outstanding contributions by seniors Mitch Garcia, Tim Caffyn, Mark Eveleth, and Mike Haviland. Freshman Phil Davis was exceptionally strong and scored the most individual points for the team.

The season started with the excitement of a new league, a home and away series with each team, A big disappointment was that the team didn't do better than expected. What seemed like endless days of rain and mud certainly didn't help the players perfect their skills. Given the countless walks and errors all year, it was fairly predictable that they wouldn't win the league. Nevertheless, there were a number of games the team might have won, including a loss at Taft, which was one of the most exciting games in recent Loomis history. High points of the year included a rare triple play against Kent, the home run blasts of Joe DeFranco, some excellent pitching by Phil Lang, strong hitting by Gordon Lank, and Steve Sayers concluding a fine three-year Pelican career at third base.

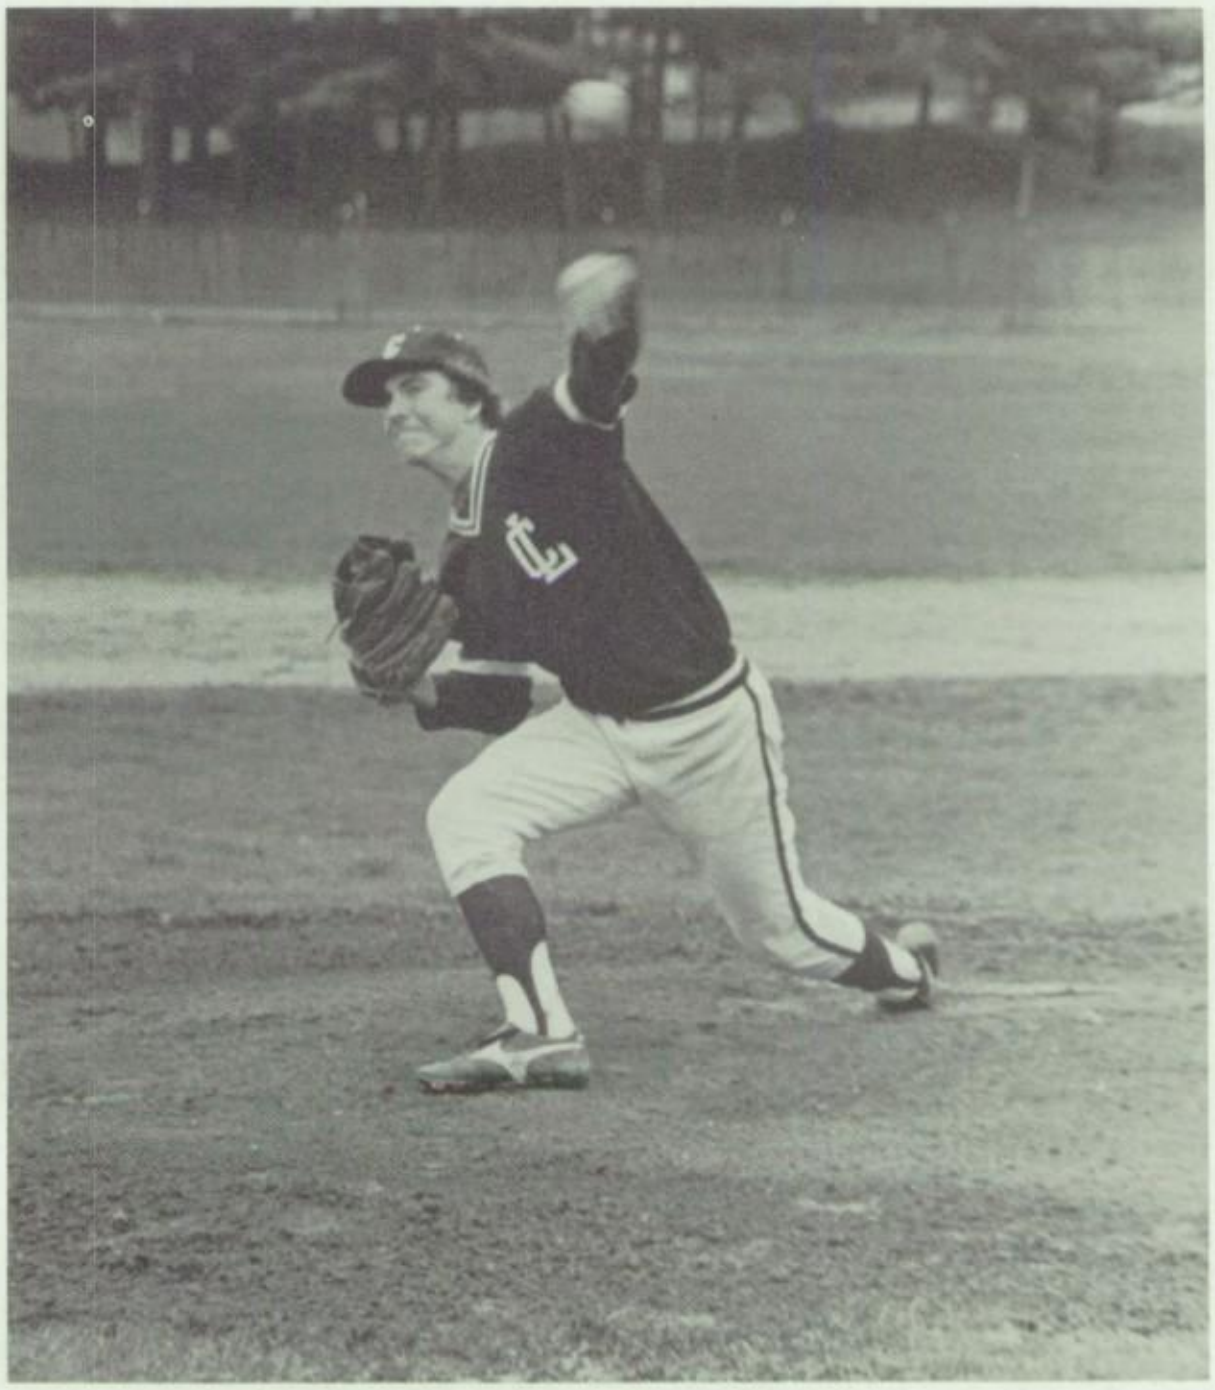
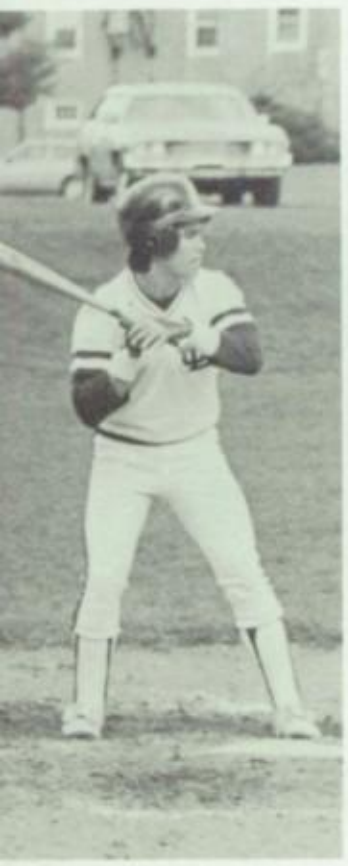
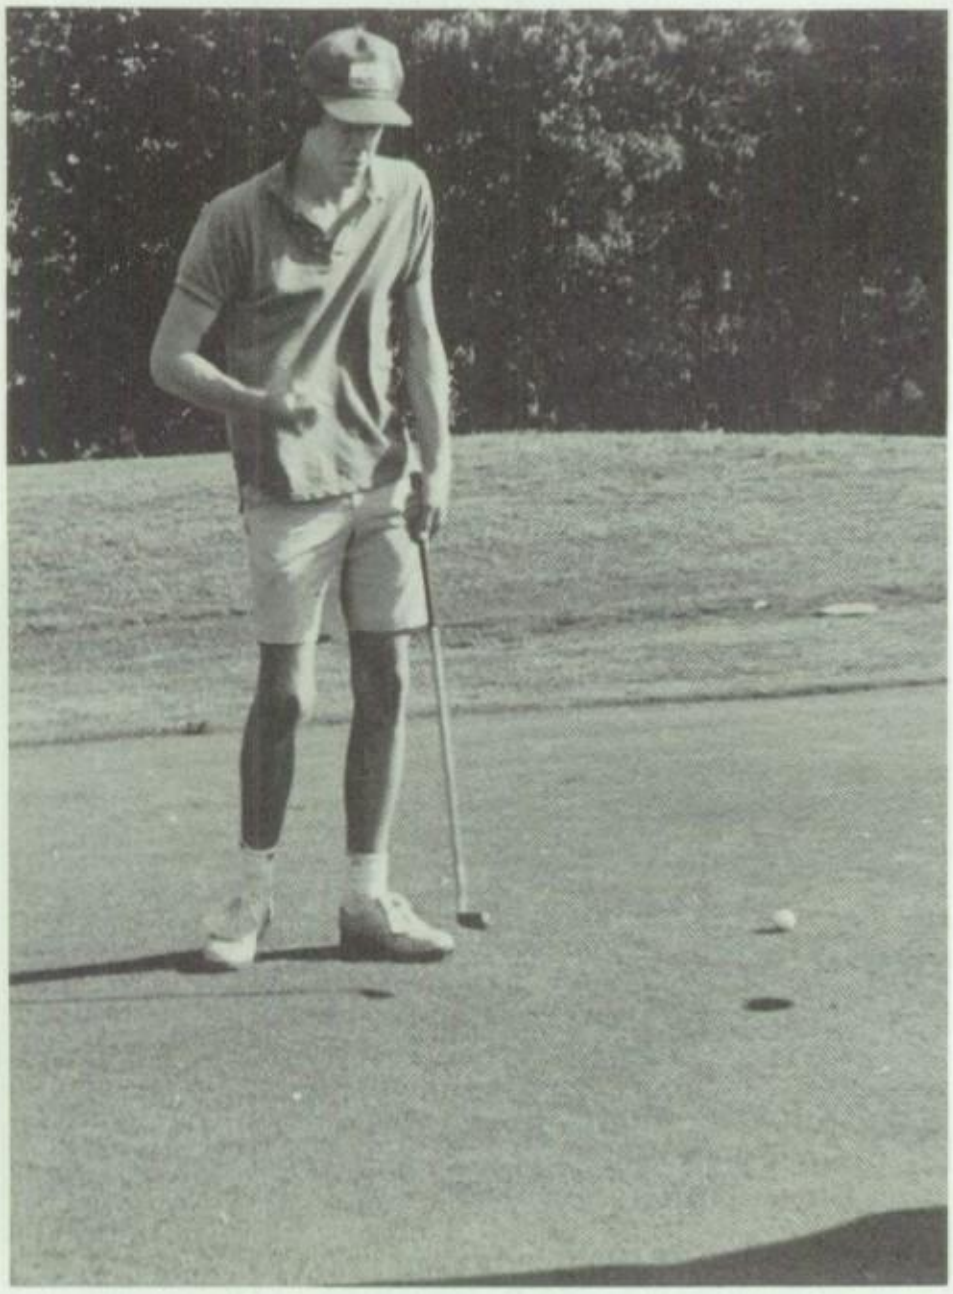
Beebeball Takes Short Hop







De-feeted Golf Team Has Class

Sienkiewicz, Lott, Pirozollo, Gassner, Jones, Inman (capt.), Bruni, Mr. Southall.

It is tempting to describe this season as a building year but this description does not do justice to the seven players who worked hard and performed to the best of their ability in spite of a frustrating and difficult season. Under the right conditions, golf can be the most enjoyable of sports. However, the record spring rain and shooting high scores in mud and slop did not get the season off on a positive note. Nevertheless, the team never gave up but looked forward to clearer days and better rounds. As the weather improved, spirits brightened and scores started to drop. Unfortunately, this improved outlook did not generate any victories and the team ended the season winless in dual meets. In spite of a winless season there were several high points during the season. Many players improved significantly; shooting personal lows in tournament play. The team's 10th place out of 18 schools in the K.I.T. was an improvement over last year and a good indication of its relative standings in New England. Also, Harry Bruni's hole in one on the eighth hole at Millbrook Golf Course proved to be an exciting moment. In addition to the dual meets, it was an honor to play in the first Loomis Chaffee Invitational Golf Tournament in memory of Steven Bader. All in all, this team can be remembered for its hard work and dedication to the sport.

Laxmen Hardworking Competitors

It all starts with the goalie and with the close defense. Charlie Gardner was excellent in the net, and the starting defense of Dean Charpentier, Taylor Henderson, Charlie Pierpont, and Erik Cliette were the toughest and most skilled the team has had in years. The team's "transiton game", the ability to move the ball quickly up the field, was its strongest point and lead to many fast break goals. Veteran midfielders Craig Russman, Phil Keating, Rob Moskowitz, Kristian Strom, John Gichuru plus newcomers Chris Robinson, Dennis O'Connor and Jeff Joffray all had great legs and excellent passing and stickhandling skills. They consistently denied other teams the chance for a good shot, reversed the play and moved the ball quickly to the attack. John Flickinger and Mike McCaffrey were the team's high scores on attack, with Milton Gooding and Brian Bell not far behind.

The high quality of play by this team was in keeping with the ever higher quality of competition in Division I lacrosse. The players on this team never stopped trying, never gave up, never made excuses. They were very commited and they competed like champions!

The 1984 girls' lacrosse season was exciting, inspirational, and truly successful. A sincere sense of "team" and unified efforts were established during the first days of practice. This proved to give the team direction and to be one of our greatest assests throughout the season. Commitment, dedication, and intensified efforts during practice and games came to be expectations of each team member. As a result of their high standards, these players and this team demonstrated a level of skill superior to Loomis Chaffee lacrosse teams of the past. "Totally Awesome" is the most accurate description of these fifteen talented individuals and their desire and exceptional efforts this spring.

Strong pitching, fielding, and hitting all characterized the Loomis Chaffee softball team and help explain the fact that this was the strongest softball season in recent memory. Greta Lundberg's 51 strikeouts on the season were one of the keys to the team's success. Incredibly strong fielding, both in the infield and outfield, led by the always intimidating senior captains Jo "Daisy" Buckholz and Tess "Popeye" Jackson helped to break the hearts of many opposing batters. Many an opposing slugger was "robbed" of "sure" home runs or extra base hits by excellent catches and accurate throws! This was especially true in the outfield led by Caroline Cremisi, Kathy Pinney, Alison Hancock, Ab Abbott, Teresa Holland, and Melanie Masterson. And Kathy Pinney hit an incredible .452 for the season!

The most impressive aspect of the team was its depth. With Allison Desmond's and Darcy Fillmore's expertise at second; Dana Patanaude's and Wendy Twarkin's stretches at first, and two hard-working catchers Julie Elias and Heather Sargent at home plate, the team was strong all the way through the line-up. And the highlight came in the final game when the team came from behind to beat a very strong Kent team . . . and appropriately, this game was played in the pouring rain! With that victory in mind, the players will always remember that . . . "The play's not over until the fat lady sings!!"

After a slow and soggy start the team came together in the final weeks of the season to play well individually and as a united effort. The 5-4 win over Kent and the 4th place finish in the league tournament were the high points of the season. Seniors Gil Mallory, Ted Mattis, Jon Perl and Matt Siegel will be missed, but three juniors and two sophomores are returning to make up the 1985 team.

Lady Swingers Serve Up Tough Season

This was a frustrating season. The team knew they had the ability to do extremely well, but they couldn't seem to pull it off. Five of six losses were lost in 3rd sets by a few games. Only Kingswood-Oxford had a better team. The weather and the lack of a real competitive drive to win seemed to hurt LC. The weather effected practices and rained out some matches. This meant they either didn't play or finish some of the matches, which they won last year. In terms of winning close matches, they had the ability, but out of twenty "third sets", the team only won six. Highlighting their season was Tracy and Sue's third place finish at Kent out of 16 double teams.

Congratulations to opponents — Deerfield, Andover and Xavier. They were the only teams to defeat the LC track team in dual competition.

Three-year jumpers Mitch Garcia and Miles Williams gave the team great power and Laurence Davis and Matt Whitehead completed a fine leaping delegation. Johan Stubner switched to hurdling and was a record breaker in both hurdles and relays. Junior Tri-captain-elect Mark Spencer complimented the senior hurdler and jumpers with his versatility. Pete Desautelle and hammar champion Steve Michaels held up the weights. John Kelly, followed by Webster Davis, gave the team sprint strength; John was first in the 100 in The New England's. Coach Zimmer's crew, led by outstanding senior Geoff Perkins, demonstrated great depth. Again Joff's weightmen were very strong. Peter Desautelle was solid and Steve Michaels was a New England champion. The team finished fourth in the New England's.

Second Place in New England's

Although a young team, only four seniors in a squad of twenty five, the girls track and field team repeated a very successful season. Highlights of the season were two school record breaking performances by Marla Schreiber with a jump of 6' 1" in the long jump and Phyllis Porter with a throw of 36' 3" in the shot put.

The team ended the year with an outstanding group effort at the New England Championships by finishing second to Milton Academy. Many school records were bettered at this meet starting with the 400m relay team of Larson, Schreiber, Gluch, and Jackson with a second place finish. Next was Lauren Paquette's third place finish in the 800m run with a time of 60.5, followed by Marla Schreiber's second place finish and a time of 47.7 in the 300m low hurdles. Kim Frost's throw of 108'5" was good for second place in the javelin, and ending the meet with a tremendous first place finish was the 1600m relay team of Schreiber, Gluch, Paquette, and Larson with a time of 4:09.5.

Taylor & Kim Named Top Athletes

At the Spring Athletic Banquet, Grim was honored for his 25 years as Boys' Varsity Lacrosse coach (212-116-1) and 20 years as Boys' Varsity Hockey coach (235-155-9). The players presented him with a large maroon Loomis Chaffee banner to be hung at the rink. Mr. Southall and Miss Noble presented the annual awards for the outstanding male and female senior athletes to Taylor Henderson and Kim Frost respectively. The winner of each award is determined by the vote of varsity letter winners.

Winning is fun. Sure.
But winning is not the point.
Wanting to win is the point.
Not giving up is the point.
Never being satisfied with what you've done is the point.
Never letting up is the point.
Never letting anyone down is the point.
Play to win. Sure.
But lose like a champion.
Because it's not winning that counts.
What counts is trying

Making Fossils

When I was seven, I buried three long shiny nails under the birch tree in my back yard. I dug the hole with a narrow gardening shovel, but every once in a while I scraped a stone and had to pry it loose by digging around it with my hands, painfully forcing black soil under my fingernails. Once the hole was as deep as my arm was long, I dropped the nails into the earth, one at a time, and quickly filled in the hole with rocks, soil, and dry grass. I then got up, stomped on the loose ground for a while, and walked off satisfied. Nobody is going to find those nails; they will outlast me, my house, and the crooked white birch tree. In a few thousand years they will quietly disintegrate, leaving their small impressions in some new layer of rock . . .

That is how I began my career of making fossils. I have always wanted to leave a mark upon the world, to stick myself into the cosmic history books. Some people carve their names into trees and picnic tables, but such actions are far too transient for me. Trees die, picnic tables rot away. I cherish permanence; therefore, I make fossils.

Granted, my fossils are no big deal. Some nails, coins, and a dead fish do not exactly tell the story of our civilization. How can I possibly compete with the heroic dinosaur who stepped ever so carefully into the slime to produce a perfect footprint, or, better yet, walked fearlessly into the tar pits so that we could nail together his bones ninety million years later and put him inside a rope at the Peabody? What an incredible bridge of time that dinosaur is! Millions of years ago he stomped around eating trees and picking fights with the local stegosaurus, and today is still around, intimidating humans at a museum. How can I compete with the thoughful Neanderthal man who died in just the right place so that today's scientists could find him and measure his brain? And how can I compete with the courageous citizens of Pompeii and Herculaneum who allowed Mt. Vesuvius to spill over them, leaving us with a hardened image of their lives two thousand years ago, and leaving me in awe as I flip through the pages of my National Geographic?

I cannot compete. However, in gratitude to all these wonderful figures out of history, I do try my best — and I certainly enjoy the effort — to put a few fossils and artifacts here and there. My yard hides a large assortment of junk which may, in thousands of years, become treasure. There are fish bones by the lake of a summer camp in New Hampshire because I was once too slow in throwing back my small catch. Finally, there is my greatest geological contribution — a pocketful of change in the Atlantic Ocean. Each time I take the ferry from Hyannis to Nantucket, I delight in tossing a penny over the rail. I always wait until the middle of the trip, when there is no land in sight, and then I walk to the highest deck and poise myself, firmly gripping the rail. At this point I usually hesitate, stopping for a while to stare aimlessly at the green crests of the waves and to wonder if I would make it to shore if I fell out of the boat. In which direction would I swim? Returning my concentration to the penny between my left thumb and forefinger, I squeeze it tighter, pressing my greasy fingerprints into the copper, very aware that I am the last person to ever touch it. Finally, I whiz the coin sidearm against the wind and watch it curve and spin until it hits the water and disappears without a splash. As I walk back to my plastic seat on the other side of the ship, I always think about how long my penny will be underwater; what will the world be like when that penny finally washes ashore or dissolves? Although my offering to the sea is nothing compared with the sunken ships and bones and eons of dead fish, it will remain through time. I have changed the world, in a tiny and imperceptible way, and I am content.

So I walk around proving my existence with a trail of fossils. Maybe one day I will leave something wonderful; perhaps I'll continue burying nails. Either way sure beats leaving breadcrumbs.

Roger Shapiro

Bird's Eye View Of Island

A young bird wanted to learn how to fly, like all the other chicks around school. He called Brainard Airport for an instructor. He did everything he could to please his instructor, taking lessons all day long. After a few years he had all the Federal Aviation Administration regulations memorized, knew the frequency of every VOR on the New York sectional chart, and could even show how Bernoullii's equation relates to an airfoil. But he couldn't fly.

He tried everything . . . even giving up lunch on Tuesdays and Thursdays for more lessons. But he still could not fly.

Question 1: Reading Comp.

An appropriate title for this essay would be

(A) How to fly.

(B) The Bird and Bernoulli.

(C) 5A.

(D) Goldowsky reflects on LC experience.

"The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy has this to say on the subject of flying.

"There is an art, or, rather, a knack to flying.

"The knack lies in knowing how to throw yourself at the ground and miss . . .

"All it requires is the ability to throw yourself forward with all your weight, and the willingness not to mind that it is going to hurt.

"That is, it is going to hurt if you fial to miss the ground.

"Most people fail to miss the ground, and if they are really trying properly, the likelihood is that they fail to miss it fairly hard."

Question 2: Analogy.

(A) Metamorphosing: tying yourself up in silk and missing.

(B) Loving: throwing yourself at someone and missing.

(C) Learning: doing schoolwork and missing.

In his senior year, the bird finally tried a different strategy. He took fewer courses . . . and discovered that there were other things in life, even school life. He discovered that the way to learn to fly is to jump out of the nest, fall straight for the ground — but even without propeller, stick, or rudder, he didn't fall . . . he flew.

He immediately accused the formal fight training of preventing him from learning how to fly. He began to complain and fight about many things his school did. And he forced a few improvements to be made.

Question 3: Antonym.

The opposite of "learning" is

(A) Classes.

(B) Quitting classes.

(C) 5A

(D) All of the above.

Finally, and just in the nick of time, he realized that he was learning to fly faster than most of the others . . . because of his formal flight training. The classes were not synonymous with learning, but they were useful in the whole process of learning.

He also discovered that there were more things to learn that couldn't be taught in classes at all. If he had just done what was required, or just what was easy to do, or even just what looked possible, he would have missed so much . . . he missed much anyway, for he did not make this discovery until almost too late.

But he explored enough to learn that he is a unique and worthwhile bird.

Question 4: Sentence Completion.

One learns by — — — , according to this bird.

(A) going to class

(B) throwing yourself at disaster, and missing

(C) exploring as diversely as possible, even to the impossible

(D) all of the above

Answer Key: 1:D 2:D 3:D 4:D

Now the cream of the crop, they were once peons, too. They're upperclassmen—the aristocracy of the campus, living it up in the shadow of that cruelest of guillotines—graduation. For a time, they're on top. They don't expect your admiration. Your undying envy will do. You may not think they're better than you, but they do.

"Who are these creatures?" you eagerly asked your companion. "Be they Gods or be they mortals?"

"Better," she swooned. "They're upperclassmen."

From my very first dealings with the faculty and students at Loomis Chaffee, I could sense a specialness in the quality of life at this school. I will carry many wonderful memories with me after these two years on the Island — the water slide on Flagg Hill, bagel breakfasts, rock climbing at Ragged, my cat Tennyson, cross country skiing by the moonlight, faculty hockey, kayaking with Joff, the Russian trip and, of course, doughnuts and colored chalk! Many thanks to the colleagues and students who did so much for me; the potential for caring is the most beautiful part of the human spirit.

ALLEN HSIAO, Upper Hampden Road, Monson, Mass. 01057 413-267-9653. (Or: Wilbraham Monson Academy, Wilbraham, Mass.)

It is with mixed feelings of pride and regret that I leave Loomis Chaffee after seven wonderful years. Proud that I was a part of the school's tradition of educational excellence and sorry that I leave behind my collegues and students both past and future. From my first physics class in the fall of '77 to the last Suffield-Loomis wrestling match, I will always treasure the memories of a young teacher struggling to help his students and the helpless students struggling to learn. In our strife, we both emerged victorious. Thank you Loomis Chaffee.

URSULA UHLIG, 125 Dogwood Lane, Athens, Georgia 30606

Eleven good years, with students' getting gradually better or my becoming an easier teacher — hard to tell. What students seem to remember are the times we got off the subject of German and just talked. There was as much joy in the accomplishment of the brightest as in the success of the weakest students, especially when they tried their best. There was also sadness about losses, Andrew Hardin and Sarai Ribicoff among them. What will last are memories and friendships. I hope to be a better correspondent in my new life.

The greatest challenge for everybody here remains to find a way of being involved, effective, and happy, without being constantly overworked. But maybe that would be too perfect. What makes leaving possible is the hope for a better balance between work and leisure time, without commuting or homework.

Thank you, friends. Auf Wiedersehen!

ALEXANDER FLASH, 21 Kellogg St., Windsor, Conn. 06095; or P.O. Box 402, 573 Stage Harbor Road, Chatham, Mass. 02633.

My last three months at Loomis Chaffee have been spent reliving my last thirty two years, . . . more than half my lifetime.

Memories of inspiration as well as frustration in the classroom, excitement as well as pain in the office, and thrills as well as sadness on the fields and on the range. Loomis/Loomis Chaffee has always been a vital and exciting place in which to live, work, and raise a family . . . always striving for the best. My sincere thanks to the Trustees and to Messrs. Grubbs, Torrey, and Ratte, and to my colleagues, but my special gratitude is for all the students. Cheerio!!

The Gnostic Gospels
Elaine Pagels, ed.

Loomis Chaffee, students and faculty, have brought me forth. My thanks to everyone, I hope, in return, I have helped bring forth the best in those I teach and live with. I hope I have inspired those around me to be wise, kind, and courageous. I'll miss this community.

"A good teacher does the work by arguing, pressing, asking questions, challenging answers, and asking more questions."

KATRINA WOODHOUSE, 3 Cooper Hill Terrace, East Granby, Conn. 06026 (Also Watkinson School, West Hartford, Conn.)

Loomis Chaffee has been very special to me. I have experienced and observed in others intellectual growth, communication, determination, support, challenge, satisfaction, achievement, respect, and concern for others. Best wishes to everyone in the future.

—YELLOW PAGE advertising is a simple, economical way to attract more business. List your name and the things you sell where prospective customers will first see them—in the YELLOW PAGES.

Don't buy a personal computer for your business.

Personal computers are fine for a lot of things, but running a business is not one of them. If you're ready to trust your business to a computer, you need a computer designed for jobs like accounts receivable, accounts payable, word processing.

So if you're ready to computerize your business, don't buy a personal computer when you can get a Digital for so small an investment. Call us or visit one of our offices.

"It's the best pizza found east of Tibet and west of Athens!!"

Four years of listening, learning, and loving. I couldn't have done it without a bunch of shore friends, my family, and of course, my late friends. You guys made the end really special!! I guess the biggest lesson that I have learned this year is that in order to move ahead, one must know that impossibilities are few and that a genuinely open and optimistic attitude is the key to success: "For the Rythm of Life is a powerful beat; puts a tingle in your fingers, and a tingle in your feet . . . " Perhaps the "tingle" is the courage to create one's own space in Life's myriad of "Broccoli decisions" Thank you EHH, R.M., and especially Mrs. Uhlig. Good Luck E.G., S.P., and S.L. to C.R. and P.L.D., Go For It! Have fun, but be careful to find out just what your potential is!

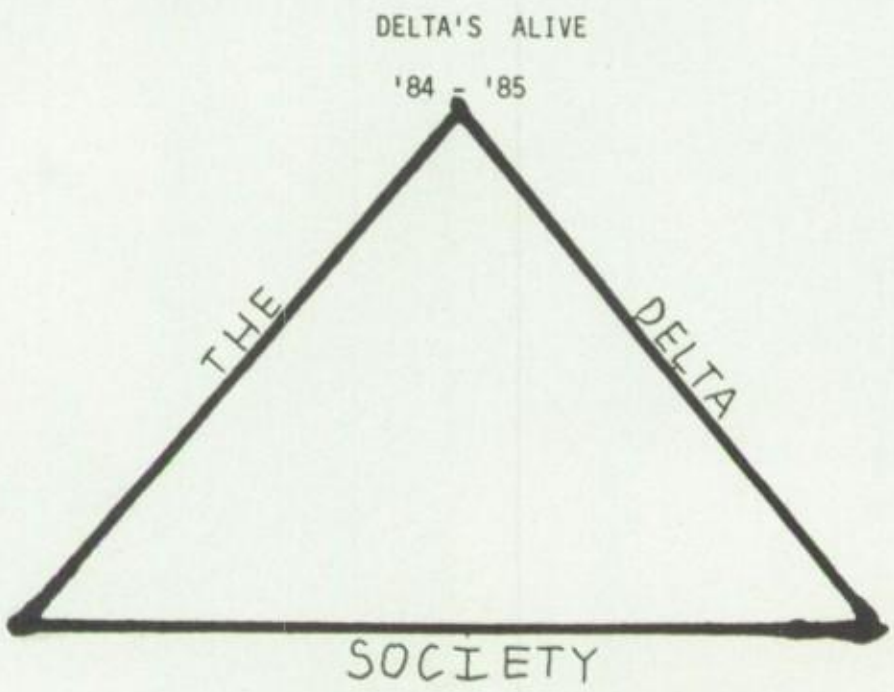
Dear Colleagues:

Just something that I thought you should be aware of:



Cordially,

'R-

CHARTERED IN 1874 THE LOOMIS INSTITUTE FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

While temperatures hung in the mid-90's, breaking all previous records, a dedicated core of students spent a week finishing the 1984 Confluence. Not only is this the largest yearbook in Loomis Chaffee history, but is the first time that the yearbook has included a formal and informal photograph of virtually every senior. A special section on the Flood of 1984 has also been included, an important part of the school's recorded history.

The following editors and staff members deserve special thanks for commiting so much thought, time, and energy to this yearbook: Deb Shannon, Gil Mallory, Stephen Paul, Craig Russman, Carolyn Kuehn, Sara Lazar, Kristian Strom, Maria Dennis, and Tim Struthers. Special thanks also to Mr. Bob Snetz from G. Fox Studio who was so helpful throughout the year.

To Steve, With Love From Your Friends

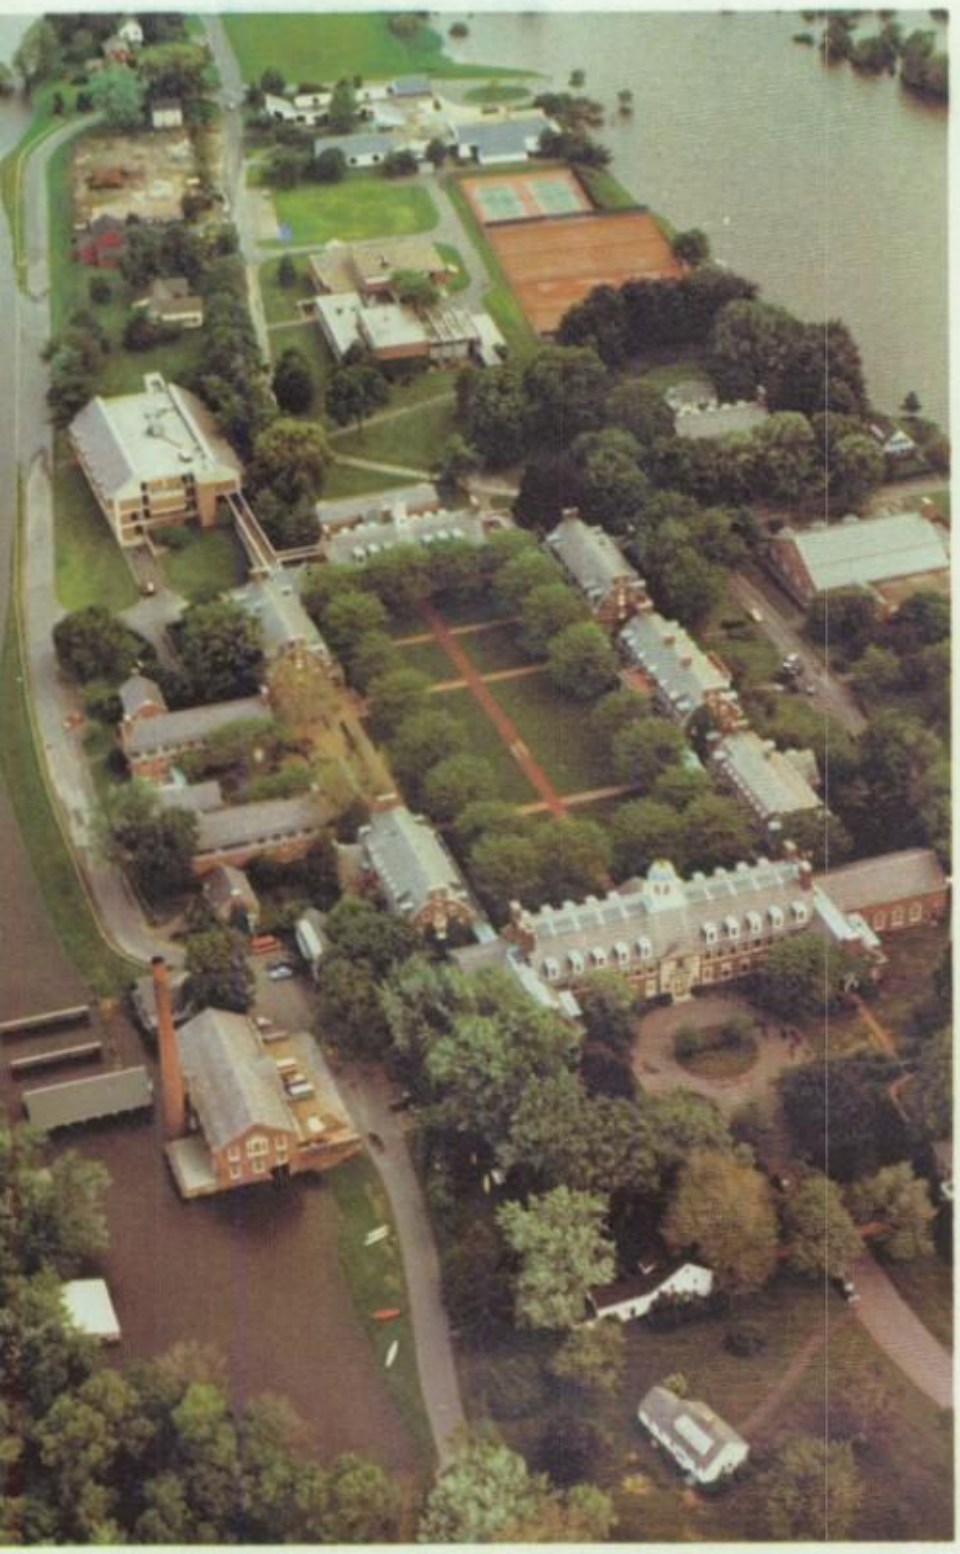
"So-called big things become small things, and you find the so-called small things are really the most important."

Steve: you lived your life this way: focusing on the consistent little efforts that made everyone know how much you valued friendship, family, and your Loomis community — your parties and pictures, your letters and laughs, your golf games, your jokes, your visits, and all those phone calls.

We are not trying to make you sound perfect. You had your bad days — but the fact is, there were very few of them. You were happy and your smile and warm conversation revealed it every day. Always full of that charismatic optimism and energy; always planning for the next time we'd all be together — always with friends.

You put your effort into the small things and the big ones worked themselves out. That is a value you have given every one of us — you are in our hearts now and always.

STOP



THE FLOOD OF '84

"On Wednesday, March 18, 1936 with the rivers rising and reports of dams "going" all up and down the Connecticut and Farmington valleys, it was decided to send the older boys home for spring vacation while it was still possible to leave the Island. The younger students left by Herman Hoxie's boat (a few intrepid souls tried to wade) the following morning and made their vacation exit the most remarkable in Loomis annals. As the flood rose, all the lower level buildings, including the power house, studio and gymnasium were inundated and water was at a two to four foot level in basements of all the other buildings. Much that could be carried out, especially in the studio, was saved but all the heavy equipment, floors, walls and utilities were ruined. Just as a new cloudburst began and the water reached the front steps of Willow Cottage (the faculty house next to the Admissions Office), next to the Infirmary, the floods crested and the main buildings of the school were saved. It had been near to tragedy, but the students had left and the patients had been transferred from the infirmary without mishap. Mr. Batchelder, the faculty and staff, had worked unceasingly and when Jack Risley, the last patient, was safely evacuated, those left on the Island — and it was never more so — could settle down to a rather primitive life and start cleaning up the debris."

L.W. Fowles
(The Harvest Of Our Lives)

The rain began on the twenty-eighth day of May in the one thousand nine hundred eighty-fourth year of Our Lord, and continued until Sunday, the third of June. Once again, The Island was truly an island. On Thursday the thirty-first, boarders as well as day students were advised to leave campus and not plan to return for a few days. One hardship followed another when on Friday at noon, the headmaster's second announcement read that exams were officially cancelled, and all boarders were to find a more humble abode at least until Tuesday of the following week.

As history shows, the timing of the floods suggests a certain characteristic of the storms. In March of 1936, a deluge began, and high waters reached presently unsurpassed levels. In preparation for the floods, seniors were excused from exams and dismissed to begin an early March vacation. Surely Mother Nature is on the student's side, as she was 48 years ago.

In a 1936 article of the LOG, special note was given to the condition of cars inundated by the high waters. Some students may recall a recent parallel to the damaged cars of the past. At seven o'clock on Thursday morning the tops of two cars were visible in the Chaffee parking lot. However, by that evening, there was no semblance of either car as the rising water approached the generator next to the tennis courts! Reportedly, one of the vehicles was moved before going all the way under water. The other was left until the owner could find the means to remove his failure of a Chitty-Chitty Bang-Bang.

The September, 1955 issue of the LOG reported that "only the tops of the light posts were visible above the water along the Loomis Road (now Batchelder Road). This year, sportsmen in canoes had to duck their heads as they paddled under the eleven foot, nine inch bridge on the same road. Other noteworthy spots around campus were the hockey rink, where the water was four feet up on the boards, Chaffee Gym, where four inches of water covered the floor, and of course the pool, which was over-filled with muddy, contaminated river water.

In addition to Orwell's novel, the Presidential election, and the Los Angeles Olympics, 1984 will be remembered as The Year of the Flood. Members of the Loomis Chaffee community will reminisce about cancelled exams and canoe trips that lead to new discoveries in outlying areas. And those on the Island will not soon forget the way in which the members of the staff and faculty and those few students who remained on campus rallied in support of each other and met the many small challenges presented by the Flood of '84.
